

You will read in another column on this page today the opening announcement of the Hempstead county campaign for the American Cancer Society. It begins next Monday, April 24, and Albert Graves and his fellow workers expect to oversubscribe the $1,500 quota.

The county was short of its goal a year ago. That left some of the poorer hill counties to make up the deficit in the all-Arkansas quota. Hempstead wants to do its full share this time.

I am writing this with an American Cancer Society memorandum close at hand. It tells me a frightening fact, that one out of every eight neighbors of yours and mine will die of cancer during this generation. But there is a comforting fact, too; medicine today is curing one out of every four cancer patients.

And if the public could be educated to seek early diagnosis medicine could save twice as many lives as it does.

That is one of the ways in which the American Cancer Society can help. Much of its money is spent in explaining the nature and symptoms of cancer, and persuading people to go to detection clinics.

Eventually cancer may be wholly cured. If it is, the discovery will come out of medical research. The American Cancer Society in the last five years has given more than 12 million dollars to research. It has given 310 grants-in-aid to 110 institutions in 32 states. It has helped train 90 medical fellows for the scientists who are engaged in fundamental research.

This is a financial job that has to be carried on from year to year — that's why you are asked to respond quickly in next week's drive.

The conquest of cancer is mankind's most ambitious goal. Malignant tumors have been known among men and animals all through recorded history. The problem is nearly as gigantic as the mystery of life itself — some strange reversal of the body forces which causes them to tear down instead of building up.

But the mind and heart of mankind that could conquer tuberculosis and diphtheria and yellow fever and smallpox can tackle this job, too. Answer, God being willing, find the answer.

If you are going to help those medical men now toiling in the laboratories, make out your check to American Cancer Society and give it to the canvassers when they call — or, if they miss you, send it to Albert Graves, chairman, Hope.

House Bill Signed by Truman

Washington, April 20 — (AP) — President Truman today signed the multi-billion dollar housing bill.

The measure, which he approved without comment, provides incentives for home building by families of low and moderate incomes but lacks the controversial co-op plan which he proposed.

Both the senate and the house rejected the co-op provision. It would have setup a $2,000,000 program of home building through cooperatives and other non-profit groups.

The measure provides for an expansion of almost $4,000,000,000 in the federal housing program through loans and mortgage guarantees.

Injuries Suffered in Freak Accident Fatal to Man

Paragould, April 20 — (AP) — A Greene county man died here today of injuries which he suffered Tuesday in a freak accident near here.

He was Brinkley Cannon, 27, of near Paragould.

Greene county officers said Cannon was injured when a double-bladed ax he was carrying became entangled in a clothes line and swung back, striking him in the head. Officials at Methodist hospital here said Cannon's brain was penetrated by the blade.

Survivors include his wife, three sons and a daughter.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

COTTON LEADERS MEET

Memphis, Tenn., April 20 — (AP) — Representatives of the cotton industry met here today to discuss the effects of modern ginning machinery on cotton fibres.

The meeting sponsored by the National Cotton council, was attended by cotton producers, ginner, shippers and spinners.

Another session will be held tomorrow.

Lattimore Red 'Cell' Member Says Budenz

Says Baltimore Is Bookie Clearing House

Washington, April 20 — (AP) — Mayor Thomas C. Alesandro said today that Baltimore is regional "clearing house" of information for big time eastern bookmakers.

He said the city is powerless to halt this operation which "seems to be a perfectly legal enterprise under current law."

D'Alesandro testified before a senate commerce subcommittee in support of a bill which would forbid the sending of gambling information across state lines. He described the measure as designed to take bookmaking "out of the billion dollar class" by cutting off bookie information.

"Just how many big time bookmakers operate in Baltimore is a moot question," D'Alesandro said. "It is general knowledge, however, that the racing news syndicate, which provides vast information service to bookmakers, operates in Baltimore a regional information clearing house."

He said city and state authorities do not have the power to control the flow of information to bookies and for this reason need federal help.

The senate took one step yesterday in the direction of helping the states deal with gambling. It passed a measure to ban the shipment of slot machines and other gambling devices into states where their operation is illegal. The bill now goes to the house.

D'Alesandro said he doubted if there were a dozen slot machines operating in Baltimore, but that the numbers racket and bookmakers operate there.

Editors Told to Improve Newspapers

Washington, April 20 — (AP) — The American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE) was advised by its president today to bend its efforts toward improving the country's newspapers — without trying to exercise police powers.

Ben M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Star, in a prepared message to the nearly 400 editors, opened up a topic expected to provide some fireworks at the ASNE's annual meeting here.

Some editors, McKelway noted, have urged that the society eject from membership or otherwise discipline any newspaper it deems "guilty of malpractice." He argued that, saying the ASNE should preserve its role as an advocate of higher newspaper standards rather than adopt that of "policeman, judge or jury."

"Our experience, and not lack of courage, should make us cautious of any proposition to set ourselves up as an organization that passes judgment upon the too-frequently generalized criticism of press performance," McKelway said.

For that would be a pretentious undertaking, beyond our capabilities as a society and very apt to collide with principles basic to a free press."

39 Face Charges of Contempt in Hawaii Probe

Honolulu, April 20 — (AP) — Thirty-nine persons today faced contempt citations for refusing to talk in the house un-American activities committee's probe of communism in Hawaii. The inquiry ended last night.

Rep. Walter (D-Pa.), acting chairman, said contempt of the house action will be taken against the 39 "just as quickly as it can be scheduled."

The 39ers returned to the mainland by air tonight.

Eighteen avowed former Communists testified the 39 were Communists or had attended party meetings.

Over half of the 39 were past or present officials of Harry Bridges' CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union. They included Hawaiian regional Director Jack W. Hall.

Exchanges to Talk

Fayetteville, April 20 — (AP) — Two University of Arkansas exchange students will tell the Arkansas Federation of Women's clubs how they like Arkansas.

The two, Peggy Heim of Paris, France, and Ingeborg von Groell, Berlin, Germany, will speak at the state convention of the AFWC in Fayetteville Friday.

Washington, April 20 — (AP) — Louis Budenz, former Communist, testified today that Owen Lattimore was a member of a "Communist cell" in the Institute of Pacific Relations.

Budenz told a senate foreign relations committee that he knows Lattimore, Far Eastern expert, was associated with two men who were "Soviet agents."

Budenz named these men as Frederick Vanderbilt Field, an official of the institute, and Philip Jaffe, former editor of the magazine Amerasia.

The witness, testifying under charges by Senator McCarthy, said the Institute of Pacific Relations was not a Communist organization. He said, however, that it contained a Communist cell, which had been able at one time to gain control of the organization.

Lattimore close by as Budenz testified. With him were Mrs. Lattimore and his lawyers, Abe Fortas and Thurmond Arnold.

They sat directly behind Budenz, so close they could have reached out and touched him.

Budenz told the committee that evidence can be obtained to substantiate his testimony.

Washington, April 20 — (AP) — Former Communist Louis Budenz was summoned to senate witness stand in Senator McCarthy's "Soviet agent" charges against Owen Lattimore.

In advance of the public hearing which was expected to bring those three together in the same room, Budenz remained silent about the nature of his testimony.

There still was no comment from him on the March 30 statement of McCarthy Wisconsin Republican, that Budenz would swear he knew Lattimore to be a Communist party member over whom the leaders had disciplinary power.

Lattimore, an American specialist on Far Eastern affairs, already has testified under oath that he never was a Communist and that he never knowingly gave the Communist cause a hand.

He also has denounced as a "contemptible lie" McCarthy's charge that he is Russia's No. 1 spy in the United States.

Lattimore's attorneys said he might take the stand again today when Budenz concluded his testimony. They added it would depend on what Budenz said about him and on how much time he needed to prepare a reply.

Budenz, one-time managing editor of the Communist Daily Worker, now is on the faculty at Fordham university in New York. He renounced Communism in 1945 — after serving the party for 10 years.

Budenz was subpoenaed for today's session by the senate foreign relations subcommittee which is investigating McCarthy's charges that a lot of Communists and Red sympathizers have infiltrated the state department.

Conference Sunday at Bethlehem Church

The Rev. A. J. Bearden of Ashdown, a former pastor, will preach at Bethlehem Methodist church Saturday, April 22, at 7:30 p.m. The 4th quarterly conference will be held on Sunday. Lunch will be served and all officials are urged to be present.

Dean Described as Professor in Sheik's Clothing

Athens, Ga., April 20 — (AP) — Defense attorneys today pictured University Dean John E. Drewry as a sheik in professor's clothing who wooed two women at the same time.

This dual love life, they said, drove Drewry's divorced wife to shoot him and the sweetheart he later married, Miss Miriam Thurmond.

Mrs. Drewry's counsel already has indicated one defense will be "delusional insanity" or temporary insanity, induced by the sedate-appearing dean's alleged romantic nature.

NOMINATIONS OKAYED

Washington, April 20 — (AP) — The senate has approved the following nominations for postmasterships in Arkansas:

Charles Beauclair Ward, Emmet Lucille A. Day, Hazen; Clifton A. Morehart, Mabelvale.

$1,500 Asked of County in Cancer Drive

Hope and Hempstead county will open a campaign here Monday, April 24, to raise $1,500 fund for the American Cancer Society.

Albert Graves is chairman; and canvassers will cover city and county in one week. Because this county fell behind its quota a year ago it is hoped to oversubscribe the 1950 fund and even the two-year score.

Mr. Graves asked united support in both the city and country. If no canvasser is available you may send your donation to him. Make your check out to: American Cancer Society.

The chairman said he felt that while many causes are presented to the local public every year none touches people quite so deeply as the dread menace of cancer. Statistics show that the ravages of this mysterious illness are checked in this generation 22 million American now alive will die of it. That is one out of every eight of your neighbors.

Quoting from the handbook of volunteer workers for the American Cancer Society, Mr. Graves said volunteers last year raised 13.2 million dollars throughout the nation. Here's how the funds are divided:

60 per cent to support detection centers, help local clinics with donations, purchase drugs and medicines; and finance speakers, printed matter, and other information aids designed to explain cancer to the public.

25 per cent to national research — where the battle against cancer may eventually be won.

15 per cent to the national office of the American Cancer Society — covering the administrative cost which is necessary in any worthwhile organization.

Lion Oil Sets New Income Record

El Dorado, April 20 — (AP) — Net income for Lion Oil company in the first quarter of this year was $3,708,55.69 after taxes — a new record.

Lion President T.M. Martin, who announced the total yesterday, said it was an increase of 67 per cent over the $2,227,778.9 net income for the first three months of 1949.

The income amounts to $1.58 per share on the 340,825 shares of stock now outstanding.

He said increased earnings were due "both to substantially increased production of crude oil and to increased volume in chemical operations."

This Foundation Garment Has the Clothing Industry Agog — Do Women Look Like Acorns?

By HAL BOYLE
New York — (AP) — Do American women today really look like a row of acorns?

This question has the clothing industry in a mild tizzy. The accusation that women, by aping the body lines of movie stars, had become as much alike as so many unborn oak trees in their nutshells was made by Raymond Marinelli, a well known designer.

Marinelli said this sameness resulted because too many women had adopted "the universal, up-lift bustline," whether or not it corresponded with their own contours.

But his charge drew an immediate and heated denial from a lady clothing designer, Cynthia.

"The upstanding bustline has already one out," said Cynthia firmly. "And the acorn look is a thing of the past. It may have been popular a few years ago. But it has been replaced by the natural look."

"The trend now is for each woman to stress her own natural body line — to wear clothing with a natural shoulder, natural hip and natural bustline. And with no exaggeration anywhere."

Cynthia — Lady designers, like male hairdressers, tend to regard last names as superfluous — also had nothing but scorn for Marinelli's contention that women would be more beautiful if they threw away their bras and girdles.

"I can't imagine a girl feeling good without a bra and girdle — looking good either," she said. "She would feel uncomfortable and ill at ease — definitely not well groomed."

"A man wants a woman individually attractive to him. He doesn't want others to stare at her because she's improperly dressed."

But Cynthia, how about Mr. Marinelli's statement that women would be 1,000 times more feminine without these undergown fashions?

"Don't you believe it," said Cynthia, a tall, slender blonde with blue eyes.

Highway Group to Seek Ways of Improvement

Little Rock, April 20 — (AP) — The Arkansas highway commission planned to meet today with delegations seeking various improvements — so it won't have to meet with them tomorrow.

At its regular session tomorrow, the commission is scheduled to open bids for contracts to cost around $3,200,000.

Drive to Cut Appropriation Meets Trouble

Washington, April 20 — (AP) — A drive to cut $1,000,000,000 off the $29,000,000,000 appropriation bill is having difficulty getting up steam in the house.

The big bill, financing more than 4 federal agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1, reached the crucial amendment stage yesterday with this result:

Ten per cent was cut from the funds recommended by the house appropriations committee for the District of Columbia.

Less than 1 per cent was cut from the budget for the legislative establishment, which includes congress itself, the government printing office and related capital activities.

The aggregate reduction was $1,700,000, of which $1,200,000 was in District of Columbia funds and $500,000 in government printing office allotments. On the basis of a total of $12,000,000 considered for the district and $56,822,450 for the legislative establishment, the cut amounted to about 1 per cent.

A similar cut in the entire bill would mean a saving of about $730,000,000, which Republicans claim is too little.

Rep. Taber of New York, who is spearheading the Republican drive to trim the bill, sponsored the amendment to reduce funds contributed by the federal government toward operating costs of the District of Columbia government.

Charges Filed Here Against Texarkana Man

Charges of grand larceny were filed against Ellison M. Hulise, Texarkana salesman, here yesterday in connection with the theft of $327 from the Sports Center, pool hall downtown on Division street.

Hulise was arrested shortly after the money was discovered missing. Miller county officers found the sum in his possession. He will be arraigned in Municipal Court here Monday.

Civic Group Meet

The Hope Civic Improvement Association will hold its regular meeting tonight at 7:30 at Hick's Funeral home. All members are requested to attend.

Big Three to Meet, Discuss All Key Issues

Washington, April 20 — (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson and Foreign Ministers Bevin of Britain will discuss Asiatic issues at the London diplomatic conferences next month.

A series of note exchanges among Washington, London and Paris, diplomatic authorities disclosed, have almost completed arrangements for the talks. These indicate that the three Western foreign affairs chiefs will be much more concerned with tightening operations among the Western nations than with charting new moves against Russia in the cold war.

That the meetings will be held against a sinister background of increasing East-West tension is assured, however, by such current developments as (1) the American Soviet row over the Baltic air-plane shooting incident and (2) the crackdown of the Soviet satellite countries like Czechoslovakia on the operations of Western diplomats and reporters.

Evidence is increasing that the Kremlin may be aiming to shut the West out of its territories almost completely, to close the Baltic and other border areas to foreign observation and to achieve a degree of isolation which the modern world has not heretofore known.

Russian relations therefore will be one of the matters up for discussion at the London meetings of the Western Big Three. The most that is expected on this is an affirmation of the policy of stopping Communist expansion and meeting the Soviet menace with growing Western power.

1,650 Made Homeless by Floods

Bismarck, N. D., April 20 — (UP) — "Walls of water" rolled across the Northern Plains today and created inland seas that drove thousands of acres of fertile farmland.

Raging rivers, fed by netting snow and shrank by ice jams, caused widespread flooding in North Dakota, southwestern Minnesota and southern Manitoba.

Floodwaters also plagued northwestern South Dakota and northern Wisconsin.

North Dakota was hardest hit by the spring floods. State agencies rushed evacuation equipment while Gov. Fred Aandahl awaited President Truman's reply to his appeal for a declaration of emergency.

The Red river on the north, at its highest level of the century, spread over wide areas of its table-like valley. On the North Dakota side of the river, nearly a score of towns were flooded from Neche on the Canadian border to Hillboro, more than 100 miles south.

Missing Hope Man Found in Dallas

C. A. Wortham, 38-year-old Hope man who has been missing from his home here since March 25, has been found in Dallas and is in a very serious condition, city police reported today.

He is apparently an amnesia victim and is too ill to be moved by his family, police said.

Wortham left Hope Saturday, March 25, via bus to Texarkana. Nothing had been heard from him here since that time. The same day the bus driver found some papers which Wortham had left on the bus and returned them to Hope.

He was picked up about a week ago in Dallas and couldn't remember anything. He was traced through his army record.

Curtailment of Mail Due Here Friday

The Washington order cutting postal deliveries from twice daily to one a day will be put into effect in Hope Friday, April 21, Postmaster Robert M. Wilson said today.

The reduction applies only to the residential district. In the downtown area there will be the usual second daily delivery of mail.

Mr. Wilson asked for public patience while the local post office adjusts itself to the new schedule.

There will be no changes in window service at Hope Post Office for the time being, he added.

Maxwell Again Convicted, to Die for Rape

For the second time in less than a year, Herman Maxwell, 21, year-old Negro, was convicted Wednesday by a Hempstead Circuit Court jury of rape of a pregnant white woman.

The conviction automatically carries the death penalty. Maxwell will be formally sentenced within a few days.

Maxwell was first convicted of raping a farmwife near DeAnn, community in August 1949. The Arkansas Supreme Court reversed the decision and ordered a retrial in January, on the grounds that the defense's court-appointed attorneys did not have time to prepare the case.

Yesterday state prosecutors James H. Pilkinton and Royce Weisenberger presented witness after witness who connected the negro with the crime, including the attacked woman who positively identified Maxwell as the one who raped her with a knife at her throat and threatening to "kill her if she yelled or told."

Yesterday afternoon the following testified for the state: Vernon Brown, Matthew Wilburn, a Negro, Sgt. J. H. Porterfield, Homer Burke, Jesse Burke, W. H. Scott, Sid McFerrit, B. B. Lanier, the latter three Miller County officers. Clarence Baker, chief of Hope police and Alton Shipp, deputy sheriff, Deputies Dean Parsons and Dalton Hulse, and State Patrolman Travis Ward.

All the above persons either participated in the arrest of Maxwell or heard his confession of the crime.

Not a single state witness was questioned by the defense. Nor did the defendant take the stand in his own behalf. He had no witnesses. In the first trial Maxwell admitted sexual intercourse with the white woman but claimed it was by mutual consent.

Maxwell's attorney, W. Harold Flowers, filed briefs and attacked the court officials for the "fairness of the trial" and asked mercy of the jury. He said Maxwell is a victim of environment and other contributing circumstances including his place in society which was actually "responsible for his act."

In his closing remarks that evoked praise from several sources Flowers threw his client on the mercy of the court.

"Make him pay but not with his life," he pleaded.

In his closing arguments, Mr. Weisenberger discussed facts of the case which had been established to the jury.

Mr. Pilkinton highly praised the defense counsel and told the jury that "Herman Maxwell is a traitor to his race. If he was the type of man as his defense he would not be in this position now."

"It is not pleasant for me to ask the death penalty for this boy. I would like to ask the jury to show mercy, if I thought it would end there."

"But mercy for a crime of this kind would only leave the gate open for more," he concluded.

The jury retired at 3:55 and reached a verdict at 4:20 p.m. Probably the largest crowd ever to attend a trial here jammed the courtroom and greeted the verdict silently. Onlookers throughout the courtroom and corridors were jammed and packed with a mixed crowd. Tension was not as high as during the first trial.

There was no disturbance anytime during the two-day trial with the exception that several women spectators wept during the final arguments by prosecuting and defense attorneys.

James H. Pilkinton was the state prosecutor assisted by Royce Weisenberger.

Judge Dexter Bush presided.

Although several Negroes were, for the first time in many years, on the jury panel, none was selected to serve.

Local Bands to Attend State Festival

The high school and junior high school bands left this afternoon in chartered busses for Hot Springs where they will participate tonight and tomorrow in the annual State Band Festival.

Mr. Cannon, director of the bands, said that the groups will stay together at the Como hotel tonight and will return to Hope Friday afternoon about six o'clock.

The junior high band has 51 members and the high school band has 52. The groups were accompanied by Mrs. Cline Franks, Mrs. Hobart Shirley, Mrs. George Newbern, Mrs. Harry Hays, Mrs. Owen Nix and Mrs. Fay James.

Rail Strike Called for Wednesday

Chicago, April 20 — (AP) — A strike against four of the nation's big railroad systems, threatening to shut all rail transportation, has been called for next Wednesday morning.

The strike call last night by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and engineers ordered some 18,000 of the union's claimed 100,000 members to leave their jobs at 6 a. m. (local time) April 21. Union spokesmen said the walkout would make idle some 50,000 rail workers.

The threatened strike follows nearly three years of disputes between the union and the carriers over union dues. For a second man on multiple unit diesel locomotives.

The union is free to strike at any time, having completed with all provisions of the national railway labor law. But the possibility of a postponement was hinted in a statement by union President David B. Robertson, who announced the strike call. He said: "If they (the railroads) make some progress in being made toward settlement, the strike will be postponed."

However, a railroad spokesman, Daniel B. Loomis, chairman of the Association of Western Railways, said: "Despite the strike threat, the railroads will stick to their decision of refusing to even the make-work demands of the union's strike action. The railroads will not be forced to make any concessions to the union, which have no threat to their position in Washington. Chairman Loomis said A. O'Neill, Jr., of the National (railway) mediation board, would discuss the situation with the White House — meaning Presidential Assistant J. O'Hara Stettin."

Work Started on $70,000 Armory

Actual work has started on armory for Company A of Arkansas National Guard, Dorsey Fuller, announced. Completion is expected by fall.

The $70,000 structure, located West 4th street, on the corner square, is being built by the Son Construction Co. of Rock.

New Ways to Stop Heart Pain Simple

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
Boston, April 20. — (P) — Two new ways of stopping the heart pains of angina pectoris were reported to the American College of Physicians today.

One is a new Egyptian drug. The other is to poke your finger into your neck.

The drug is khalin. It comes from a weed common in Arabia and the Eastern Mediterranean countries. Extracts are used for colds.

Doctors Harold L. Osher and Kermit H. Katz, of Boston City hospital, reported using khalin on 28 persons, all with bad cases of angina pectoris. All but three were much relieved.

Thirteen had been unable to work because muscular activity caused heart attacks. Eight returned to work. These included laborers, mechanics and housewives.

Khalin reduced the frequency of painful attacks as well as raising muscular activity. The drug dilates arteries. Angina pain comes from constriction in arteries which feed working blood to heart muscles.

Some patients were taking nitroglycerine for the heart condition. Khalin reduced the amount needed.

The drug is manufactured for doctors only by Smith, Kline and French laboratories, Philadelphia. It is not for sale.

Illinois finished the 1950 Big Ten basketball season as the highest scoring team in Conference history.

Some Scream About New Mail Order

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 20 — (AP) — In the Washington comedy "The Hilltoppers" which is being shown in some theaters, some congressmen are screaming in rage and pain.

It always adds to the complexity of life in the capital when congressmen who preach economy turn purple if economy hits them where the voters live.

The latest example is that of the post office department. It's running in the red and, to save money, it announced Tuesday night the mail service will be cut, including the number of daily deliveries to your home.

By Wednesday morning some of the congressmen were roaring. They predicted they'd be swamped with protests from the folks back home, the folks who elect them to office. And this is an election year.

Yet the post office has only done what a congressional committee itself suggested the post office should do to reduce spending. The committee made its suggestion to the postmaster general, J. M. Donaldson.

Donaldson had gone before the house appropriations committee to ask for a certain amount of money to run the post office department another year. The money problem will be explained in detail in a moment.

It was the job of this committee to recommend to the entire house just how much money it thought the house should vote for the post office. The committee listened to Donaldson and looked into the P. O. problems.

It knows the problems: The P. O. has been running in the red for years because its expenses are always more than the money it collects from the public by selling stamps and so on.

Still, the committee recommended to the house that it let Donaldson have less than he asked for. But wouldn't that mean the P. O. would go deeper into the red?

"The committee apparently believed the P. O. could cut its deficit down a bit by economizing. Economize how? The committee, in its report to the house, said:

"The committee has discussed with the postmaster general certain proposals for effecting economies, and realizes that probably all of the suggestions made will provoke some complaints from one source or another.

"Nevertheless, the financial condition of the U.S. treasury is such that every step possible must be taken to save money.

"The committee believes that a reduction of the number of deliveries per day to many areas, particularly on those routes serving residential areas exclusively.

"Residential areas receive from one to three deliveries a day; rural patrons receive one delivery a day. The committee urges the postmaster general to provide for the rearrangement of city delivery service so as to reduce the number of deliveries wherever possible."

Donaldson took the committee at its word and ordered the number of deliveries cut, plus other cuts in the postal service, such as shutting down earlier at night.

Within a few hours this cry of anguish came out of congress: "Outrageous. Fifty million taxpayers have been hit in the mailbox by this ruling."

(This lawmaker might have added: "Those are 50,000,000 votes.")

And promptly a congress man predicted he and his fellows would be hounded with protests from the folks back home.

He even hinted that Donaldson had ordered the cut to arouse the homefolks into urging congress to let the P. O. have the money it asked.

Donaldson asked for $2,235,000.

Explains HADACOL Rationing

Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc, President of The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana, makers of HADACOL, is shown explaining the necessity of decreasing the voluntary HADACOL ration allowance from six to two bottles. The photograph shows Senator LeBlanc telling Mrs. Henry Squire, 715 General Mouton Avenue, Lafayette, Louisiana, of the tremendous efforts his organization is making to increase production to meet the ever-mounting demand for HADACOL.

Senator LeBlanc is asking Mrs. Squire to limit her purchases to two bottles of HADACOL. He is urging her not to accept substitutes because there is only one genuine HADACOL. "We have had a great deal of difficulty in securing the expensive, high-quality chemicals that have made HADACOL helpful to so many people," he said. "We realized that our B Vitamins and Iron, the helpful quantities of Calcium, Phosphorous and Manganese that HADACOL contains must be of the highest quality. In fact, we have refused to change our formula; we have insisted on maintaining the high quality of our HADACOL, although doing so has meant the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars in sales."

Mr. LeBlanc said that, despite great increases in production facilities and although the HADACOL plant is operating day and night, it has been impossible, up to the present time, to expand production to the point where it meets the ever-increasing demand. "We believe that, as production facilities continue to increase," the Senator added, "we will soon be able to meet the demand. In the meantime, let me again urge people not to accept substitutes for HADACOL, because there is only one genuine HADACOL."

DOROTHY DIX

Blighted Childhood

Dear Miss Dix: What do you think of a mother who will not allow her son, who is 9 years old, to play with other boys, but insists that he play with girls and keep clean and tidy like a girl? This boy is a real boy, full of life and fun, but his spirit is being broken. He wants to fish, play ball and boy games, get dirty and have the normal life of an honest-to-goodness boy. The father's heart aches for the boy, but he has no say in the matter. What about it?

A FRIEND OF THE BOY
Answer: Why hasn't the father say-so about the boy? He is the son, isn't he? He has all the right to let a silly and neurotic woman blight the lad's childhood by suppressing all of his natural instincts and distort his character by her inhibitions, and when he fails to save his boy from the mother's baneful influence he is committing an unforgivable sin against him.

Mother Love Fails
Because a woman has a child does not inevitably indicate that she has sense and judgment enough to rear it properly. Because she loves her child it does not follow that she will do the best for it. Mother love can be a curse as well as a blessing, and there are plenty of times when a father's first duty is to remove his children from their mother's baneful and destructive influence. It is the only way he can save them, and their good is much more important than their mother's happiness.

That is the only remedy in a case in which a mother tries to thwart Nature and make a little imitation girl out of a normal boy. She is lacking both in intelligence and common humanity, or else she would never attempt it. Why she wants to do it, goodness only knows. For, if she succeeds, she turns him into a sissy, and, if he fails, his reaction will make him a hellion. But in either case it is father's duty to do something about it. Right away. Before it is too late.

Dear Dorothy Dix: People say that my husband is too good for me. He has no bad habits. Brings home all the money he makes. Never takes a drink or smokes or goes out at night unless I know all about it. Would scarcely look at even Lana Turner if she would pass. But the trouble is some caty women are continually saying that he is a better husband than I am a wife, which may be true. I wish he would get drunk, or strike me, or have an affair with some other woman, so as to lessen the disparity between us and thus stop these caty women in their tracks. For twenty years I have tried to catch him in something but can't and it is getting beyond endurance. What to do?

Answer: You prove my favorite theory, that neither men or women really want the ideal mates for which they sigh, and that they couldn't stand them if they had them. The contrast between them would be too great.

What they want is just some poor, fltering, weak human being like themselves who is continually stumbling and blundering and doing all those things which they should not do and leaving undone those things which they should do. Somebody they can forgive and feel superior to and cherish for their very weaknesses.

So you have my sympathy, poor Troubled Wife. It must be awful to be married to a man who is better than you are, a man you never have any reason to scold and who only looks pained and surprised when you fall down as a wife. And, worst of all, it gives you no grievance. What on earth do you talk about when wives foregather and tell their secret sorrows?

Dear Miss Dix: I am 39 years of age, very much in love with a married man ten years older than I am. He is married to a fine woman, who has been a good wife and mother of us would do anything to hurt her. The wrench of giving him up makes me sick to even think about, but have I the right to go on seeing him under the circumstances?

Answer: If you have to have limb amputated, the sooner the better, the quicker it heals and the less danger there is of complications. So with an unhappy love affair. The quicker it is ended, the sooner will you recover from it. You gain nothing by eating it drag along, poisoning the years, until at last it ends in the death of everything that makes life worth while.

Connally Calls for Unified Foreign Policy

Washington, April 20 —(AP)— Senator Connally (D-Tex.) appealed to the senate today to join in a non-partisan foreign policy and thus lift the cause of world peace "above the mists and fogs of party politics."

The veteran chairman of the senate foreign relations committee made his call for unity in foreign affairs in a major speech prepared for the opening debate on a $3,372,450,000 foreign aid bill.

"There should be no partisan politics involved in our foreign affairs," Connally said. "That field should not be invaded by demagogic appeals to gain personal popularity at home."

Connally's appeal came on the heels of a Republican announcement that GOP leaders "will be glad to consider" any proposals made by President Truman for cooperation in foreign affairs.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said late yesterday the Republican senate policy committee agreed with Senator Bridges (R-NH), who has told Mr. Truman the administration must consult with a cross-section of GOP senate leaders to win cooperation in a bipartisan foreign policy.

"If the President wants the re-establishment of a bipartisan policy on matters of wide importance," Bridges said, "then he must consult with the senate Republican leaders and keep the Republicans informed by consultation in the development of policy."

President Truman has announced that he intends to keep the Republicans informed and to seek their views both in forming and carrying out foreign policy.

Connally insisted that while domestic problems can be fought out in congress and in debates among the people, "in the field of foreign relations our differences and divisions should stop at the water's edge."

Choice of yellow quarters or uncolored pounds.

A check of margarine brands confirms the report that only one margarine is made with cream. That margarine is Creamo. Creamo margarine industry sales figures reveal Creamo's popularity. Creamo has grown more rapidly than the average of all other brands since 1935. Creamo was made available for national distribution in tests against the most expensive type brand spreads, school children chose Creamo. Margarine to 1. Tests like this prove Creamo on bread and more delicious in frying, baking and seasoning other foods.

River Bills Take Big Hunk of U. S. Cash

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, April 19.—(AP)—You think your taxes are high. And you think the government is spending too much money. You think it would cut down on the spending it could cut down on. You think it could cut down on the spending it could cut down on. You think it could cut down on the spending it could cut down on.

Now She Shops "Cash and Carry"

Without Painful Backache
After her long, weary and aching, over-exhausted, excessive smoking and exposure to cold, she sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complete of burning backache, loss of sex and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritation due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

country are putting in plugs with their congressmen to get the government to do something about their bay, or river, or harbor.

And when all these plugs are put together in one big — called the rivers and harbors bill — the total calls for a big chunk of government money.

Your congressman, of course, is glad to push your pet project. That's getting something for the people back home who vote for him. In fact, his re-election may depend on whether he gets you what you want.

This brings up the old problem of trying to have your cake and eat it, too, of cutting down government spending while asking the government to keep on spending.

And it's a wonderful sight to see congressmen, who complain about government spending, making a pitch for a big rivers and harbors bill when congress gets around to voting on it.

This all came up again in the past week. The senate was debating the rivers and harbors bill. Senator Douglas, Illinois Democrat, who is also an economist, asked the senators to make some sacrifices. In the name of economy, and vote against some of their pet home-town projects.

"I know only too well what we are up against," he said. "Local grants demand that their representatives and senators bring home the bacon."

"All too often these groups loudly proclaim their desire for economy, but at the same time they want their local pet projects at the federal government's expense. They want economy practiced on the other fellow but not on themselves."

"So my appeal is directed not only to the senate of the United States. It is directed in an even greater degree to the citizens of the localities themselves."

In short, Douglas said, this was the old pork barrel bill. Altogether, the bill called for spending $1,565,000,000. Douglas offered a number of suggestions — amendments — for cutting $840,000,000 off that amount. The senators voted down every one of his suggestions.

Hague Opposition Sweep Election in New Jersey

Trenton, N. J., April 19 — (UP)—Candidates backed by Mayor John V. Kenny of Jersey City, who toppled the Hague machine last year, won the Democratic nominations for congress in two districts today as votes were counted in New Jersey's primary election.

Not all of the $840,000,000 which Douglas wanted eliminated involved work on something as simple and perhaps as unnecessary as recreation improvement.

Some went much further than that and touched on things which other senators vigorously argued were of most importance in their areas and had the full approval of the U. S. army engineers.

In some cases, they were so angry they argued that Douglas didn't know what he was talking about, although he protested that he had studied the whole problem for 10 months before making this protest to the senate.

The budget bureau — the arm of the government which figures how much is needed for everything, including rivers and harbors — had recommended spending a total of $798,000,000.

The house previously thrust aside this idea of the budget bureau and approved $1,220,000,000 or $322,000,000 more than the budget bureau thought was necessary.

Then came the senate's turn. It upped the figure to $1,565,000,000, which was $445,000,000 more than the house thought necessary and $767,000,000 more than the budget

Distant Star

There is never likely to be anyone else in his life. The memory of Syrtis's words floated back to her. "I think he despises women."

ALTHOUGH by the morning the storm had died down outside, when Clemency got up she found a fine powdering of sand everywhere, and the aftermath of the storm seemed to be a tale of frayed tempers and general irritation.

Baba slept late and thoroughly objected to being taken out of bed. While she dressed, Clemency heard the patient Louille coaxing a very cross small girl in the night nursery.

It was easy that day, for the storm had really upset Baba. She was heavy-eyed, and complained of her head aching, and for once went for her afternoon nap without any shadow of argument.

Having tucked her safely up, Clemency went back to the day nursery and sat down to do some knitting.

She started and turned as the door opened and Jon Amberley came in.

He looked ill and drawn, and though she had felt the disgust which an exhibition such as she had witnessed last night naturally roused in her, she could not help feeling sorry for him, even while she liked him less than she had ever done before.

Intuition so often took the place of experience with Clemency, and she realized suddenly that what she had glimpsed last night had a different significance from the one she had attached to it. There was something ravaged and defeated about the man before her, mingled with a kind of challenging defiance as he met her eyes.

She schooled her face and her voice carefully as she smiled at him. "Good afternoon, Mr. Amberley. I'm afraid Baba's asleep. I think the storm has upset her, poor mite."

"It always does," he said, with a bureau recommended.

There's one catch in all this. The house and senate didn't really vote that much money. It only "authorized" that much. That is, it said it thought spending that much money was all right. But voting the actual money comes later. And when it does come, congress may vote less money than it now has "authorized." If that happens, of course, government spending will be cut.

Until it happens, if it happens, the congressmen can tell the folks back home they worked hard and got congressional approval of the local project. There's a difference between getting approval for it and getting congress to vote the money to get it started.

Will Try to Extend Rice Controls

Washington, April 20 — (AP)—Representatives from rice-growing states agreed yesterday at a meeting with agriculture department officials to try and push through congress before June 30 legislation to extend import controls on rice.

The law now authorizing such controls expires June 30.

The rice state group, including ten house members and the administrative assistants for eight senators and a representative, met with Ralph Trigg, president of the out returning her greeting. "Comes out of the desert like some damned tormenting spirit. I hate it. Always know, hours before it comes."

"Can I look at the kid?" he asked. "I won't disturb her."

She hesitated, but he had already gone through to the night nursery.

HE had opened the door noiselessly and left it wide, from where she stood she saw him go across to the cot and stand looking down at the sleeping child. He remained there for perhaps a full minute, then he turned and tipped back, closing the communicating door as quietly as he had opened it.

"She looks flushed. Not going to be ill, is she?" he asked.

"No, no! She's just a little out of sorts," said Clemency quickly. "Oh, well—look after her!" He thrust his hands into his jacket pockets, but not before she saw how they were trembling. "I'm going away," he continued in the same, rather nervous manner which she had noticed since his entrance. "Maybe for a day or two—maybe longer. I don't know. Tell Baba I'll be back, and—to be a good girl. And—my love and a kiss." He walked to the door through which he had just entered and paused looking back at her; there was a strange, angry unhappiness in his eyes. "She's the only thing in the world I care a damn about, and I'm not even any good to her," he said. "Look after her."

"I think you can trust me to do that," said Clemency gently.

He stared at her. "I believe so. About the only person I've met that I can trust. Goodbye."

She stood looking after him. The man who had just gone out seemed to have left a very dark shadow behind him—that same vague sinister thing she had sensed on her first night in the house.

L. R. Doctor to Head Medical Group

Fort Smith, April 20 — (AP)—Charles R. Henry of Little Rock will head the Arkansas Medical society in 1951-52.

He was named president-elect, which means he'll take office as president next year — as the society closed its annual convention here yesterday.

By his election as first vice president Dr. Fred H. Krock of Fort Smith was placed in line, under customary procedure, to be chosen new president-elect at next year's convention, which will be held in Little Rock.

Dr. Earle Hunt of Clarksville, chosen president-elect at the 1949 convention, assumed office as president, succeeding Dr. Euclid Smith of Hot Springs.

The society adopted a resolution urging doctors to vote for the candidates for political offices they believe will help in preserving "the American way of living." The resolution emphasized that the society wasn't endorsing any candidate.

Another resolution commended Dr. R. B. Robins of Camden, Democratic national committeeman for Arkansas and a former AMS president, for his "continued personal opposition to socialism."

Dr. Robins has been outspoken against the proposed compulsory national health insurance program — referred to by its opponents as "socialized medicine."

The society rejected a proposed resolution which would have put it on record as formally endorsing birth control under certain conditions. The resolution was requested by the Planned Parenthood league.

Besides Dr. Krock, Dr. Ross Fowler of Harrison and Dr. G. L. Hardgraves of Clarksville, were elected vice presidents of the society.

District councilors elected include: Fourth, Dr. Louis K. Hundley, Pine Bluff; sixth, Dr. R. C. Dickinson, Horatio; tenth, Dr. Fount Richardson, Fayetteville.

The year 1950 is the year 1369 in the Mohammedan calendar, 2610 in the Japanese era, 5710 in the Jewish calendar and 2703 in the old Roman calendar, based on the founding date of Rome.

commodity credit corporation, to discuss two problems bothering domestic rice producers.

These problems, said Rep. Larcade (D-La.) one of the group, were:

(1) The agriculture department's attitude on an extension of rice import controls; and

(2) Reports that the CCC may delay for 60 to 90 days disposal of the rice it has purchased or will take over April 30 in its price support operations.

Larcade said, Trigg advised that he would present the first matter to "higher levels" but said
